

S-008A AC Clamp

- Portable
- Compact and slim
- Detects AC, leakage current, high harmonic current, phase, electric energy, power, power factor, etc.
- Compatible with various electrical instruments

DESCRIPTION

S-008A AC Clamp is designed for measuring AC, leakage current, high harmonic current, phase, electric energy, power, power factor, etc. The new compact and slim design make it easy to reach into small and clustered environments, and it does not need to disconnect or break the monitoring circuit. It provides a safe and accurate solution for electrical inspections.

APPLICATION

This current clamp is designed for electrical metering applications specifically designed to be clamp around primary current-carrying conductors without disconnecting wires or breaking the monitoring circuit. Current transformers are the best solution for applications in energy measurement and management.
